

ASAP 610 Wireless Unit

ASAP 610 is a new generation of wireless terminals that deliver blazing performance, high-end functionality, and exceptional ease of use – without tying customers to a fixed location. The ASAP 610 is powered by a 32-bit processor, so it swiftly handles even the most complex mag-stripe or smart card transactions, using a choice of the latest wireless technologies, such as GPRS, CDMA, and Wi-Fi. And its modular design provides true investment protection, allowing modules to be easily swapped should new versions of a technology emerge. Compliant with PCI Data Security Standard – a strict industry-wide standard designed to protect sensitive information until 2014.
